AUSTRIA

The following terms apply to Customers based in Austria:

1. Limitation of Liability. The following replaces any Section for "Limitation of Liability" in its entirety:

Service Provider will be liable for damages caused by willful misconduct and gross negligence according to the statutory provisions.

Service Provider will only be liable for losses caused by slight negligence in the case of an infringement of major contractual obligations. In this case, liability is limited to damages which are foreseeable or typical and the total liability for all such possible damages is limited to 20% of the total value of the contract which will be determined based on the product order form used to sell the product that was the cause of the damage. However, any liability for consequential damage and for loss of data is excluded.

If Service Provider is found to be liable, contributory negligence on the part of Customer is to be suitably taken into account, in particular if reports of errors have been insufficient or if data security is questionable. Data security is questionable if Customer has failed to take adequate precautions, if it has failed to implement the latest and most appropriate security techniques to combat external factors, in particular computer viruses.

The aforementioned liability restrictions do not apply in case of mandatory product liability or in case of personal injury or death.

2. Warranties for Software. The following replaces the Section for Warranties for Software:

Within the framework of the legal provisions, Service Provider guarantees that the software, when used as agreed in this Master Agreement, corresponds with the user documentation valid and made available to Customer when the Master Agreement was signed.

The warranty period is twelve (12) months.

The parties agree that the warranty claim of the Customer will comprise error remediation first. Should Service Provider fail to remedy a defect or directly related defect on several occasions, the Customer may demand a reduction in price, or if significant defects are not remedied, the Customer may choose to terminate an individual Quote (product order form) concluded on the basis of the Master Agreement and/or terminate the Master Agreement.

The Customer is obliged to cooperate in isolating defects. In particular, the Customer will provide Service Provider with verifiable documentation regarding the type and occurrence of deviations from the services described in the user documentation or other defects, and will explain the nature of the defect, its consequences and the circumstances under which it occurs. Service Provider shall then begin analysing and remediating the defect or begin implementing a workaround to bypass the defect. To enable the solution of problems that are not reproducible in the system environment of Service Provider, the Customer can grant Service Provider the right of access to the system at the Customer's discretion. If such access is not granted, or is not granted to a sufficient extent as to be able to remediate the error, the Customer shall reimburse all costs associated with the travel and accommodation of the required Service Provider employees. If the defect is attributable to circumstances for which the Customer or a third party is responsible, the Customer is obliged to remunerate Service Provider for the services provided according to the currently applicable price list of Service Provider.

The warranty does not extend to defects caused by using the Software in a manner that does not adhere to the user documentation or the system requirements.

3. Termination. The following is added to the Section for Term and Termination:

Termination for cause will remain unaffected for both the Service Provider and Customer.

4. Additional Restrictions. The following is added to the Section for Additional Restrictions:

As an exception to the prohibitions in this Section, the Customer is entitled to decompile, reverse engineer and/or copy the Software when permitted by statutory law, if (i) such process is required to achieve interoperability with other programs or required to enable the designate use or correction of errors and (ii) Service Provider has not made available the information required for this within a reasonable period of time.

5. Suggestions / Improvements to Software / Ownership. The following is added to the Section for Suggestions / Improvements to Software or the Ownership Section:

In case the rights to suggestions or improvements or the Customer's rights to deliverables cannot be assigned by law, Customer hereby grants to Service Provider an irrevocable, unlimited, free of charge right to use such suggestions and improvements, including the right to grant sublicenses.
